The first one celebrated is the advent of our Lord, and the nearest Sunday to this time is called Advent Sunday, happening this year on the 27th. Evergreens.--Though the least pleasant sight connected with the coming on of winter in this month is to see the leaves, that have so gladdened the groves all the summer long, falling everywhere around us, withered and dead, --that sight is accompanied by another which is too often overlooked. Though most of the leaves fall in winter, and the stems and branches which they beautified stand here, many of them remain all the year round, and look brighter and fresher now than they did in spring, in virtue of the contrasts that are everywhere about them. Indeed, the cultivation of Evergreens has become so general with us of late years, that the home enclosures about our country dwellings, from the proudest down to even the poorest, are seldom to be seen without a plentiful supply, which we now, in this month, first begin to observe, and acknowledge the value of. It must be a poor plot of garden-ground, indeed, that does not now boast its clumps of Winterblooming Laurus: in-s; its trim Holly-hedges, bright with their scarlet berries; or its tall Spruce Firs, shooting up their pyramid of feathery branches beside the low, ivy-grown porch. Of this last-named profuse ornament of whatever is permitted to afford it support (the Ivy), we...
