It has always been more or less independent of county boundaries. At the present time, it includes the whole of Berkshire, with about two-thirds of Oxfordshire and one-third of Buckinghamshire. But two churches in Middlesex, with one church and two mission-stations in Hampshire, are comprised within its limits; and in the past it has extended its operations further into Middlesex, and even into Wiltshire and Hertfordshire. The author at one time thought of compiling three county histories, of Berkshire, Oxfordshire, and Buckinghamshire respectively. This plan, however, proved open to a two-fold objection. In the first place, the churches in part of the two latter counties are included in a different association (the North Bucks Union), and he had not the same opportunity of becoming acquainted with their history as he has enjoyed in the case of the Association in whose bounds his whole ministerial career has been spent, although in the pastoral charge of three successive churches. And again, there are instances, as in the south of Oxfordshire, where the entire history of churches was so closely identified with that of others on the other side of the river, that it was difficult to deal with them separately. These considerations have led him to put the records with which he was dealing in the form of an Association history...
