You see, it's this way. It is in me. I can't help it. And Father said I was always to keep on writing. He said I would be famous some day. (306)¹ These sentences are taken from Lucy Maud Montgomery's most autobiographical novel Emily of New Moon (1923) which is set in Prince Edward Island in Canada. The book draws a picture of a child who has lost her father and therefore is forced to get along with her New Moon kinship, who cares for her from that time on. It is no wonder that conflicts are preprogrammed between Emily, the young author who urges for freedom, and the conventional Blair Water people, especially Aunt Elisabeth, who is integrated in...
